

Jolanta Tambor, professor of University of Silesia. Professor's degree; based on the book Mowa Górnolązaków oraz ich świadomość językowa i etniczna [Upper Silesia inhabitants' way of speaking and their language and ethnic awareness].

Professional experience: she works at the University of Silesia: Department of Sociolinguistic of the Institute of Polish Language (former Department of History of Polish Language); she is Rector's Proxy for Foreign Students, Faculty of Philology Dean's Plenipotentiary for Foreign Students, Head of the School of Polish Language and Culture.

She organized and coorganized from 1991: Polish language workshops for teachers working abroad (in Poland and in Hungary, Kazakstan, Russia, Moldova, Ukraine, USA, Canada); Summer school of Polish language and culture, international conferences connected with multimedia in teaching foreign languages and teaching of Polish language and culture as foreigners, Polish-German-Czech conferences about language politics and certification system, foreign editions of Postgraduate Studies of Teaching Polish Language and Culture as Foreign in Hungary, five times in Germany, Belarus, Ukraine, Italy.

She participated in Socrates-Lingua projects: Multimedia program for teaching adult Francophones (program awarded with European Label of Distinction 2002), Slavic Network – language and cultural integration – Slavic net (Polish-Czech-Slovak-Slovene-Bulgarian-German).

She was visiting professor at the Belarusian Pedagogical University in Minsk (Belarus), at the University of Toronto and University of Alberta in Edmonton (Canada) and visiting lecturer in Germany, Austria, Czech Republic, Macedonia, China, Japan, South Korea, USA. She participated with papers in Polish and abroad scientific conferences (e.g. Madrid – Spain, Edmonton, Toronto – Canada, Stockholm – Sweden, Koblenz, Halle, Leipzig – Germany, Lvov – Ukraine, Bańska Bystrzyca – Slovakia, Debrechyn – Hungary, Lisbon – Portugal, Tokyo – Japan, Bloomington – USA, Seul – South Korea.

J. Tambor is vice general editor of journal „Postscriptum Polonistyczne”, faculty coordinator of Socrates-Erasmus program arrangements, vicepresident of International Association of Polish Studies, member of the „Bristol” Society of Polish and Foreign Teachers of Polish Language and Culture (in second cadency member of management).